

KICKFAIR

Communication of the learning cooperation between the Peres Center for Peace (Israel), Al-Quds (Palestine) and KICKFAIR (Germany)

The learning cooperation

- KICKFAIR the Peres Center for Peace and Al-Quds build on a mutual learning process on an eye-to-eye level including different dimensions of learning through football such as social, intercultural and global learning, education and formation, conflict resolution and peace development
- In the framework of the international learning cooperation, both organizations develop common learning projects that involve youngsters and Youth Leaders as well as coaches/coordinators and directors
- The Peres Center and Al-Quds has high interest to benefit from the strong experience and knowledge from KICKFAIR in the field of education and formation through football. KICKFAIR is motivated to join in this unique opportunity to exchange experiences and knowledge with other organisations furthering shared goals of development. This initiative would be a positive reinforcement of their work and a new learning prospect as well.

KICK FOR UNDERSTANDING-PLAY FOR PEACE

- organizations share knowledge about how to use football as a frame for education and learning. One main focus will be on developing Youth Leadership through football and how to implement that in current programmes.
- From June 30th to July 6th, workshops will take place in Stuttgart (KICKFAIR). Youth Leaders will be integrated in the development and realization of this knowledge exchange. Based on that, follow-up meetings and workshops will take place from 10th to 15th of September in Israel and Palestine.
- This common project will also be presented at the Conference on “Sport as a mediator between cultures” held from the 13th to the 17th of September at the Wingate Institute for Sport and Health Sciences in Israel.
